V2verify™ Is Selected as a Plug and Play Fintech Innovation Partner

Omaha, NE – February 25th, 2020 - V2verify, an industry-leading voice biometric company, was selected to join an elite group of Fintech Innovators as part of Plug and Play's Innovation Platform. The companies that were selected are the top 2% of companies considered for the program as determined by Plug and Play and their expansive group of corporate partners.

"We're honored to be selected for the Plug and Play Platform, and what is equally exciting, is that companies are seeing the value that voice biometrics can bring to identity and access management." Said Damian De Rozairo, V2verify CEO.

De Rozairo continues, "It's exciting to be part of conversations where business security leaders are excited about voice biometrics. People are beginning to understand that any part of an identity and access management process that relies on passwords or challenge questions has a significant vulnerability, and that doesn't make any sense for security, operations, or the customer experience."

About V2verify

V2verify, a voice biometrics company, provides a simple solution to a complex problem - user authentication and identity access management. With V2verify, simply SPEAK for 2 seconds on any device, AUTHENTICATE, V2 has a 99% authentication success rate, and ACCESS your information with a contact center, log in to a website, a mobile app, a portal, open a locked door, or even clock in or out of a time management system. V2verify is changing the way businesses authenticate their users.
